Commissioner Adelstein:

We deem the FCC's move to deregulate ownership of the media as one of the most egregious abuses of power that we have seen in our lifetime.

The FCC is mandated to uphold diversity of ownership to ensure that all Americans receive vital information from a variety of sources. It is clear that the 1996 Telecommunications Act has already created monopolies that have negatively impacted the dissemination of information and have presented limited or misrepresented facts.

Your charter is to uphold the constitution, and you are morally, ethically, and legally bound to restrict ownership by corporations who will unduly influence the way information to Americans and those abroad is presented

The marketplace has not changed, contrary to the rhetoric presented by large conglomerates. The airwaves belong to the people, regardless of the century in which we live

Dear Federal Commun. Comm. Commissioners

I strongly urge the FCC NOT to allow further ^{ownership} consolidation of communications/media channels and stations. There is already too much consolidation.

Please ensure competition and diversity of options for we the public. "Public Radio" and "Public Television" ~~and~~ are the only respite now from "Mass media."

Sincerely,

Commissioner Abernathy:

We deem the FCC's move to deregulate ownership of the media as one of the most egregious abuses of power that we have seen in our lifetime.

The FCC is mandated to uphold diversity of ownership to ensure that all Americans receive vital information from a variety of sources. It is clear that the 1996 Telecommunications Act has already created monopolies that have negatively impacted the dissemination of information and have presented limited or misrepresented facts

Your charter is to uphold the constitution, and you are morally, ethically, and legally bound to restrict ownership by corporations who will unduly influence the way information to Americans and those abroad is presented.

The marketplace has not changed, contrary to the rhetoric presented by large conglomerates. The airwaves belong to the people, regardless of the century in which we live.

Sincerely,

Steven and Linda Morton
